AR ART EXHIBITION ON-DEMAND

MEDITATE

SUMMARY

MEDITATE

The Brooklyn based artist and curator Julie Gratz uses Artivive to bring her digital artwork into a physical and intimate space. As both a painter and animator, Augmented Reality enables her to combine all of her artistic passions into one medium. Animation rarely has a place in gallery shows, but Augmented Reality technology is truly opening the door to endless possibilities for multi-disciplinary artists.

Does physical presence play a role in the perception of digital art? What happens to animation when it becomes something you can interact with?

Artworks: 7

ARTWORKS

Ultra Violet

"Ultra Violet" is dedicated to Emily's Entourage, and to the pursuit of knowledge, expansion, and healing. The piece is an endless cycle of energetic connection between ourselves, our planet, and our universe.

This piece marks a turning point in her artistic career. With this piece, the artist wants be more active and intentional about the impact that her art makes on the world. Proceeds from every sale and rental of this piece will be donated directly to Emily's Entourage

Emily's Entourage accelerates research and drug development for nonsense mutations of Cystic Fibrosis. By providing critical leadership and coordination, Emily's Entourage drives high-impact research, cultivates multi-stakeholder collaboration, and facilitates information exchange to speed breakthroughs. Their goal is singular: to expedite life-saving treatments and a cure for those with nonsense mutations of CF who are waiting with bated and fading breath.
